Barbara,

I just had a great idea.....

I received a mailing from the Santa Clara County Registrar of Voters about an upcoming election.

Since all of the candidates for the Citizens Redistricting Commission must be registered voters ... why not have each county's Registrar of Voters include a notice in their future mailings to voters and poll workers. Not any special mailing, just an extra page or part thereof in already planned mailings.

The Secretary of State would probably have to approve this activity and then direct county ROV's to take action.

It is cost effective and has the potential to reach every registered California voter before the year is over.

An Extract from your current meeting notice would probably serve this purpose quite nicely.

Thanks,
Jim Wright
