Subject: New districts

Message Body:

Ive lived in the (new) Covina district and Tulare from what I can tell especially in the urban areas great care was done to match natural boundaries of cities as possible. I do not see any inherent bias and that only population numbers used. To me the purest representation is blind to all things but the actual number of people in an area.

It is right the first time, I fear special interest will pressure for change.

Living in a rural area of the 21st district at least we had one representative for our county. Now the major of Bakersfield city will be within the district. Which mean there is no chance of someone outside of Bakersfield that can win. Thus my vote is worthless. Thanks
