The draft congressional district for Sacramento County is a excellent revision. Keep Folsom and the communities east of the city of Sacramento together. Also I support the pairing of Elk Grove with the City of Sacramento in the same map.

Thank You,

I believe when not very many people are engaged politically then more efforts need to be utilized to engage the public. I fear that the lack of citizens coming out and participating lead me to think that in Sacramento there are only a few people in the political arena. When you re draw the lines there has to be a way to communicate with the public it's responsibility

Database Outline

The database created for EQCA by Redistricting Partners includes the following datasets. Each dataset was imported and ranked based on density within the census block group level. These rankings were then summed and used to create the final ranking, called the LGBT Blend Rank or LGBT COI (Community of Interest). This methodology has been reviewed by the Williams Institute and university researchers from USC and CSU.

Re: Community of interest: Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual and Transgender community

Dear Commissioners,

Equality California is the largest statewide lesbian, gay, bisexual, and transgender civil rights advocacy organization in California with more than 700,000 members statewide. Over the past decade, Equality California has passed more than 75 pieces of legislation and continues to advance equality through legislative advocacy, electoral work, public education and community empowerment.

On behalf of the board and staff of Equality California I would like to thank the members of the California Citizens Redistricting Commission for your service. And on behalf our 700,000 members in California, I write to urge you to recognize the LGBT community as a unique community of interest to ensure fair and appropriate representation.

The LGBT communities in California are a community of interest using the community of interest standard. Drawing from Legislature v. Reinecke, 10 Cal. 3d 396, 412 (1973), the California constitution provides as follows: “A community of interest is a contiguous population which shares common social and economic interests that should be included within a single district for purposes of its effective and fair representation. Examples of such shared interests are those common to an urban area, a rural area, an industrial area, or an agricultural area, and those common to areas in which the people share similar living standards, use the same transportation facilities, have similar work opportunities, or have access to the same media of communication relevant to the election process. Communities of interest shall not include relationships with political parties, incumbents, or political candidates.” Cal. Const. art. 21, sec. 2(d)(4); see Reinecke, 10 Cal. 3d at 412 (listing most of these requirements); id. at 416 (“travel patterns, geography, common economic activities and other ‘community of interest’ indicators). Thus, the court appears to rely on an intuitive notion of a geographic area united by a similar lifestyle or culture. We may identify certain specific factors, however, from court opinions from California and elsewhere, and legal scholarship.

In particular, the existence of geographically compact minority communities of interest clearly limits the political subdivision principle. If a community may be identified as (1) a minority group that is (2) geographically compact or has a “sense of community” it constitutes a community of interest.

While not discussed in relevant California cases, scholars and other courts have identified other factors that may also play a role:

- “The social and economic interests common to the population of an area which are probable subjects of legislative action generally termed a “community of interests” should be considered in determining whether the area should be included within or excluded from a proposed district so that all of the citizens of the district may be represented reasonably, fairly and effectively. “ The California Supreme Court in Legislature v. Reinecke, 10 Cal. 3d 396, 401, 412 (1973). “[A]ge, economic status, religious and political persuasion, and a variety of other demographic factors.” Shaw v. Reno, 509 U.S. 630, 646 (1993).
- “[C]ultural ties.” Mellow v. Mitchell, 607 A.2d 204, 220-21 (Pa. 1992). A similar formulation notes that “a ‘community of interest’ exists when ‘residents share substantial cultural, economic, political, and social ties.’” Statement of Elizabeth OuYang in TARRY HUM, REDISTRICTING AND THE NEW DEMOGRAPHICS: DEFINING “COMMUNITIES OF INTEREST” IN NEW YORK CITY 15 (2002).
- “[W]hether a group has suffered an identifiable history of discrimination in education, health and employment.” Stephen J. Malone, Note, Recognizing Communities of Interest in a Legislative Apportionment Plan, 83 VA. L. REV. 461, 478 (1997); Cf. Statement of Gary Okihiro in HUM supra at 26 (such a sense of community grows out of a “community of memory.”).
- “[A] community of limited liability, a community of opportunities, a community of shared institutions, and a community bound by common goods.” Statement of Paul Ong in HUM, supra at 14.
- A recent California based project is engaging in an empirical study to provide evidence for the community of interest standard in Asian-American communities, and outlines some other factors such as income/economic class, occupation, education, mode of travel, media usage, language, political stance, political engagement, information networks, and common risks faced. CAROL OJEDA KIMBROUGH, EUGENE LEE & YEN LING SHEK, THE ASIAN AMERICANS REDISTRICTING PROJECT: LEGAL BACKGROUND OF THE “COMMUNITY OF COMMON INTEREST” REQUIREMENT (2009).

Given this understanding of the community of interest requirement, it would appear that LGBT communities should remain intact in the redistricting process, especially those that exist in a particular political subdivision as a minority community. In certain areas, the LGBT community satisfies both requirements of a minority community of interest. First, the California Supreme Court has recognized that LGBT individuals form a specific minority group with a common history of discrimination. In re Marriage Cases, 43 Cal.4th 757, 841 (2008). Next, LGBT minorities form geographically compact groups with a sense of community in certain locations. For example, the City of West Hollywood is a political subdivision, containing a large number of LGBT individuals, estimated at 40% of the community, and shares a common history and identity. Ian Lovett, Changing

Nature of West Hollywood, Long a Gay Haven, Becomes an Election Issue, N.Y. TIMES, Mar. 6, 2011.

Finally, note that the community of interest standard plays a role even when a minority group does not form a majority within a district. For example, the “sense of community” was protected in Wilson v. Eu in part by “forming minority influence districts to maximize the voting potential of geographically compact minority groups of appreciable size . . . even though the individual minority groups . . . were of insufficient size to constitute a majority in their voting districts.” 1 Cal. 4th 707 at 715. Therefore, on behalf our members I hope you will recognize the community of interest standard in a way that will ensure the fair representation of the LGBT community in California. I am submitting maps that highlight the LGBT community as a community of interest.

Very truly yours,

Subject: Arden Arcade and Sacramento County

Message Body:

Dear Redistricting Commission: My area, Arden Arcade, which is just east of the City of Sacramento, would be better represented, in my opinion, if it were situated within the same Assembly, Senate and Congressional Districts as the City of Sacramento. My address is Sacramento, CA (even though I live just outside the city limits). Our community just voted to not become our own city and maintain an identity of being part of Sacramento. Our area has more similarities with Sacramento than the other areas east and northeast of Sacramento. The way that the lines are drawn now would split people off from an area that they feel a connection to. People in my area think that we live in Sacramento even though we do not. When I was a precinct officer for the 2008 elections people in my area wanted to vote for Kevin Johnson for Mayor of Sacramento. I had to explain to them that we do not technically live in Sacramento even if your address says that you live in Sacramento, so you cannot !

vote for Mayor of Sacramento. Clearly our area should not be cut off from the voting block that it feels most connected to. I would also like to make a comment about the Board of Equalization maps. Sacramento County should be with other like areas. Much of the proposed BOE district that includes Sacramento County is rural. Sacramento County would be better suited to be in the Western BOE district with more populous areas that are similar to Sacramento County. Thank you for your time.
