Subject: Arvin and Lamont

Message Body:

Isn't anyone speaking for Arvin and Lamont. These two small cities are just east of Bakersfield, practically a suburb, with a large hispanic population. Many citizens of these cities work in Bakersfield. Why are they in the Kings district. It does not make any sense that they are not included in the same district as Bakersfield so that they can be represent better. Is this not the reason for the redistricting commision, to give better representation to the people of California. I am truely confused as to why no one is speaking out to help the citizens of Lamont and Arvin get better representation.
