Hello,

It appears that you've separated Marin County from San Francisco on all the maps. If this is correct, great job! Marin is rural and low density suburban. We have very little in common with San Francisco, but everything in common with Sonoma County and the North Coast. The maps seem to reflect these realities! Please keep up the good work and don't get pushed into any last minute gerrymandering. If you succeed in quality re-districting, California might have a fighting chance to solve its problems.
