Subject: drawing the lines
To: votersfirstact@crc.ca.gov

To whom it may concern,
 I would think a computer program could be drawn up that would take the map with population density and the number of legislative positions into consideration. The program could then draw the lines using variables that would be non partisan. This program could be used in many different applications for State, County, city, etc.
The program could even sell it to other States, etc. Help the budget.

Thanks, Maury
