Hello. It's come to my attention that there is a committee working on redistricting for the California State Senate representation. While I'm very appreciative of the work that Senator Blakeslee is doing, and in particular his insistence on safety measures regarding the nuclear power plants in California, I really don't think that Santa Cruz County shares much common ground with San Luis Obispo County. I mean, San Luis Obispo County is practically in Los Angeles as far as I'm concerned.

Santa Cruz County is closely tied with Monterey and Santa Clara County, due to many of our local residents commuting to those areas for work. It makes much more sense that we should be connected to Santa Clara and Monterey, rather than to San Luis Obispo. Thank you for your consideration.
