Message Body:

Commisson: I just got this email message from a friend:

No one answered my email request to come to the regional center in San Bernardino for the Inland Empire. They were supposedly available from 9 am – 4 pm today or by appointment. Ellen said she would go with me immediately if I got a confirmation that someone would be there. I sent another email at 1 pm. No answer. You notice that all the email addresses goes to Berkley Law School. The data gate is closed on access by the L.

Our deadline for the maps to be submitted is Thursday, May 19th. Once they have to be redrawn, it probably won't be re-done. The next data center availability date is Tues and Wed from 3-9 pm. It doesn't allow much time to make the Thursday, May 19th deadline. All we can do is write. Watch for this pattern among the rest of the regions.

(end of email) These People have been trying hard to get in to the "public" mapping center and cannot even get an appointment!

Best, Carol Hehmeyer
