I strongly urge the commission to hold at least one meeting in Eureka. The best way to understand the North Coast area would be to experience what the residents of this area do in order to get here. I'd suggest you fly to Redding and drive to Humboldt County on Highway 299 (3 hours) or fly to Santa Rosa and drive to Humboldt County on Highway 101 (3 hours). Those who think Redding is a fair representation of "the rural areas to the North" are derelict in their duty if they do not physically come to this area.

My credentials: I know and appreciate the vast differences in the northern tier of counties and the rest of the state. I have lived in Eureka, Chico, Santa Rosa, Sacramento, Modesto, San Bernardino County, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Redwood City, San Jose and many points between. I beg you, do not make any decisions about the Northwestern counties without at least visiting us.
