I live in Van Nuys, which is part of the East San Fernando Valley.

The East Valley is the section of the San Fernando Valley that is east of the 405 Freeway, and as it extends north where the 405 Freeway becomes the 5 Freeway. Mulholland Drive is the southern border--on the other side of the mountain are Bel Air, Westwood and Beverly Hills, which are not connected to the Valley.

When you take up the important cause of drawing districts, please maximize the number of districts entirely within the Valley. With a significant number of people living on either side of the 405, you could draw districts that give both the West Valley and East Valley communities of interest the representation they deserve.
