My name is arnold levy-----I am a resident of -west hills----- in the San Fernando Valley portion of the county of Los Angeles.

The San Fernando Valley is a unique and distinct area home to 1.8 million people, more than 100,000 businesses and 4,000 charities. The Los Angeles Unified School District, Los Angeles Police Department and even Habitat for Humanity all separate the San Fernando Valley from the rest of Los Angeles through district boundaries.

The San Fernando Valley is a geographical area roughly bounded by the Santa Susana Mountains to the north and west, the Mulholland Drive to the south, and the San Gabriel Mountains to the east. It lies wholly within Los Angeles County and includes the cities of Burbank, Calabasas, Glendale, Hidden Hills and San Fernando, as well as the valley portion of the City of Los Angeles.

For too long Assembly, Senate and Congressional districts have carved up the San Fernando Valley so that most of the districts that represent San Fernando Valley contain less than 40 percent San Fernando Valley residents. Therefore, I ask that you draw lines that maximize the number of districts that are either wholly within the San Fernando Valley or in which the San Fernando Valley is the most influential voter bloc.
