Message Body:

Humboldt county has far more in common with the other coastal counties south of us, than we do with the central valley. We have absolutely nothing in common with the central valley. I moved to Humboldt Co. in 1995. I grew up in Modesto. It's all agri-business, big box stores, sprawling subdivisions, no water and extremely polluted air. Just the opposite of Humboldt, where we have a large number of national parks, lots of summer tourism, and fishing. To think we have anything in common and should be included in the same district as the central valley is insane..leave the lines alone..
