Message Body:

I'm writing as a decade long resident of Simi Valley. Having studied the maps released of my surrounding area, I find many problems with the draft. Thousand Oaks wholly needs to be included with Simi Valley. They share every similarity possible, which can't be said for Oxnard or the other coastal cities you have grouped with Simi Valley. The cities of the Los Angeles County that border Ventura County are a more ideal group than any of the coastal cities of Ventura County; Malibu and Santa Barbara to name a few. The inland cities of the Ventura County have far more in common with Santa Clarita and the cities of the Northwest San Fernando Valley. Please reconsider grouping Ventura County cities of Simi Valley and Thousand Oaks with Santa Clarita and the connecting cities of the Northwest San Fernando Valley.
