I tried to send this on your web site first and it would not accept it. Please see below.

In reviewing the maps they seem to make no sense to the people of Sonoma County. Our county seems to be split up on all of them. In the assembly and senate map there is a small sliver of sonoma county attached to napa, divided by a mountain range and the county border. Yet american canyon was cut out of napa and put in marin. Sonoma is part of the coast and not the inland area represented.

Again with the congressional map we are separated by 2 mountain ranges and to county borders only to draw in a small portion of an area that is not geographically, economically, politically, climate wise, of from what I can see any other way of similar interest to the majority of the map.

It seems that the commission has cast the north bay, which is very much an area that should be represented, into an illogical egg beeter.

Marin, Sonoma, Napa, Lake, and Mendocino counties would seem to be more natural borders.
