To: The California Redistricting Commission

We the undersigned clergy, urge the Redistricting Commission to adopt the initial draft proposal, i.e. the 2-3-4 plan as a fair and just alignment of the political representation for African Americans in Southern California. We are deeply concerned about the dilution of African American political strength in the final draft of the commission's report.

We have observed the commission and coordinated with our allies in various coalitions to express the concerns of engaged religious communities. We respect the dynamic nature of political life in our communities and have been active participants in civic affairs ranging from the local to international concerns. As African American religious leaders; we appreciate what it takes to build coalitions in order to get things done.

The areas we serve, largely in South Los Angeles, are connected to the places our congregants live, work and contribute their talents in a large variety of activities from public service, to private enterprise, non-profit work and volunteerism. Religious communities are at the forefront of developing partnerships with our Latino and Asian brothers and sisters.

The history of Los Angeles is that of racial, ethnic and socio-economic collaboration and compromise. Recently, we have worked to advocate for mass transit, improved education, implementation of President Barack Obama's healthcare reforms and First Lady Michelle Obama's healthy lifestyle initiative. Such projects have drawn on the strengths of various community partners to benefit us all.

South Los Angeles is best served with a "status quo" set of legislative and congressional districts. In the 2-3-4 configuration, we have the opportunity to elect individuals sensitive to our concerns in two senate districts, three congressional districts and four assembly districts. We know that the African American presence in Southern California has enriched democracy in our state and that all benefit when African Americans have a strong political voice. Such a voice speaks from the perspective of a moral imperative that no one is left out. This is the best of the African American religious tradition and the guiding principle of our work and witness.

Sincerely,

Pastor William Monroe Campbell

TO: Q2, Redistricting Commission

Alternative Proposal for West LA Districts

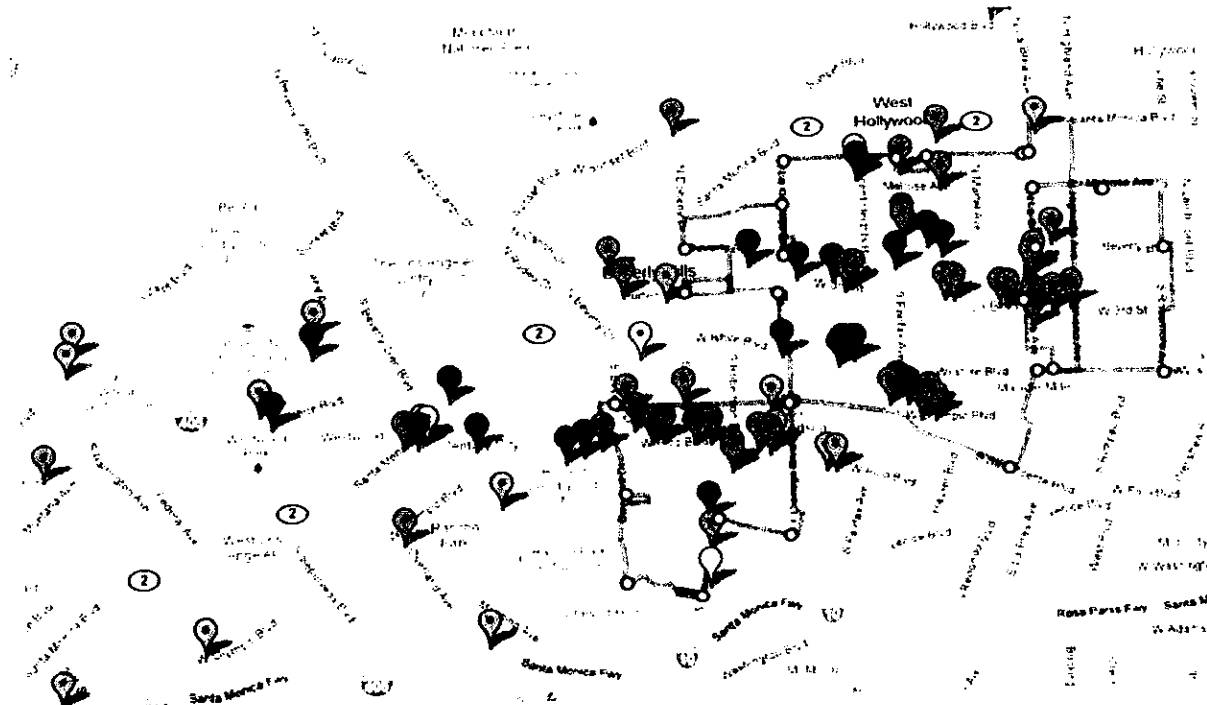

[July 13, 2011]

These districts are based on the last round of visualizations, but make changes to maximize Jewish turnout in the Westside District without materially reducing nearby minority voices. Consolidates traditional West/Mid-City West Jewish communities that have been divided by redistricting in the past.

Guide to Jewish Community

Core Jewish neighborhoods -- Beverly Hills, Westwood, Beverly-Fairfax, Hancock Park, Pico-Robertson, Cheviot Hills, Century City, Brentwood, Bel Air, Beverlywood, Pacific Palisades, Miracle Mile (North of Olympic), Park La Brea.

There are approximately 600,000 Jews in the Los Angeles area, 80,000 of which are Orthodox. There are also large Persian Jewish populations in Westwood and Beverly Hills. The core communities above are a significant sector of this population (excluding populations in the South and West San Fernando Valley)

Blue Markers – Orthodox Synagogues
Yellow Markers – Persian/Sephardic Synagogues
Red Markers – Reform/Conservative Synagogues
Green Markers – Jewish community service organizations

PROPOSED DISTRICT TO CONSOLIDATE WESTSIDE JEWISH COMMUNITY

Redistricting Data: LA Santa Monica Mts – West Side (LAMWS)

Agoura Hills, Malibu Hills, Malibu, Pacific Palisades, Topanga, Brentwood, Bel Air, Westwood, Beverly Hills, West Hollywood, Hancock Park, Hollywood (part), East Hollywood (part), Westwood, Cheviot Hills, Pico-Robertson, Beverlywood, Miracle Mile (part)

Loses Santa Monica, gains Pico-Robertson, Cheviot Hills, Beverlywood, Miracle Mile.

Corroborating COI Testimony: (a) Westwood-Beverly Hills unites Persian/Armenian communities. Pico-Robertson-Hancock Park-Fairfax unites Orthodox communities. (b) Santa Monica Mountains communities united, excluding Santa Monica, which also has ties to Beach areas and Calabasas. (c) Jewish community organizations tie Brentwood, Westwood, Beverly Hills, Century City, Fairfax, Park La Brea, Miracle Mile & Hancock Park (d) Miracle Mile tied to Fairfax/Hancock Park areas (same neighborhood councils).

Redistricting Data: LA West - Crenshaw Culver City

Keeps south & east original lines: Mid-City, Victoria Park, Lafayette Park, Hyde Park, Leimert Park, Baldwin Hills, Ladera Heights, Little Ethiopia, Culver City, Palms, West LA, Venice, Santa Monica

Loses Pico Robertson, Cheviot Hills, Miralce Mile, Century City, gains and unifies existing beach communities of West LA/Mar Vista/Palms with Venice/Santa Monica.

CVAP and population numbers do not change.

Corroborating COI testimony: ties together "beach" communities of Santa Monica, Venice, West LA with COG partner Culver City and Baldwin communities. Ties Mid-City with Baldwin communities
