Communities of interest can be described by creating maps and telling us about your community.

- Oral Testimony—Personal stories are powerful as well as providing historical context.
- Written Testimony—A written description can be used to tell your community's story.

- Community Issues—Often communities get involved in redistricting because they feel their issues have not been adequately addressed by their elected representatives. Are there issues your Community of Interest focuses on?
- Boundary Maps—Create a map of your neighborhood or area.

We may provide interpretation services for the public comment sections of CRC business meetings if provided with five days advance notice.

Written public input can be sent to the CRC in any format and language and will be translated into English.

If you need an interpreter to provide input during a meeting, we ask that you notify the Commission five business days prior to a meeting to request interpreter services. The Commission will attempt to contract with an interpreter in the requested language.
