One of the greatest powers that the people of California have is to elect their own representatives to conduct the business of their government. How the district boundaries are configured can make a difference between empowering and maximizing the voters' voices or minimizing and muffling their voices. The independent California Citizens Redistricting Commission ("Commission") is currently drawing fair districts that reflect the best interests of the people, not the incumbent political interests.

Speaking up about your community is critical to ensuring district lines are drawn to keep your community whole to the extent possible, and grouped with nearby communities with similar interests. This ensures that your voice is heard by your elected leaders when making such decisions about the quality and funding of your child's education or determining your tax rates.

Your input is valuable in shaping the new political boundaries.
