1. The Commission understands that communities often develop positive and productive relationships with their current representatives. However, California's state constitution, in Article XXI, Section 2, Subsection d.4, stipulates that "Communities of interest shall not include relationships with political parties, incumbents, or political candidates."
2. We are eager to hear about your communities of interest – what makes them unique, what are your shared interests, what nearby areas you would or would not like to be grouped with in a district for the various elected offices – not who you would like to be represented by; you will have a chance to make that choice at election time!
3. The Commission will be considering all of the public input about communities of interest, but it is barred from considering

1. Gerrymandering generally refers to the drawing of district lines by who will benefit from the way the districts are drawn. One of the reasons that California citizens voted in 2008 and 2010 to give the job of redistricting to an independent citizens' commission was to eliminate gerrymandering.
2. The 2010 California Citizens Redistricting Commission followed the same rules – established in California's state constitution – that the 2020 Commission will be following.
 - Districts must be of nearly equal population to comply with the U.S. Constitution.
 - Districts must comply with the Voting Rights Act to ensure that minorities have a fair opportunity to elect representatives of their choice.
 - Districts must be drawn contiguously, so that all parts of the district are connected to each other.
 - Districts must minimize the division of cities, counties, neighborhoods and communities of interest to the extent possible.
 - Districts should be geographically compact such that nearby areas of population are not bypassed for more distant populations.
 - Where practicable, districts should be nested (be made up of complete and adjacent districts for another elected office)
3. Further, the Commission cannot consider the place of residence of any incumbent or political candidate in the creation of a map, and the districts may not be drawn for the purpose of favoring or discriminating against an incumbent, political candidate, or political party.
4. If you would like to review the 2010 Commission's explanation of each district's lines, please visit https://wedrawthelines.ca.gov/wp-content/uploads/sites/64/2011/08/crc_20110815_2final_report.pdf.
