“Redistricting Commissioners, Good luck with the hard work on Assembly lines and such State issues. For federal representation, the simple answer is shown <https://www.scribd.com/document/519917785/Anti-Gerrymander> You choose the angle but make certain the lines are exactly parallel and divide districts that span the entire width or length of the state. Any objections to such a plan could only be mounted by politicians, not the people. I have no problem if my next-door neighbor is voting in a different congressional district. Do you? Local politicians might have to curry favor with two Representatives rather than one, but that's part of their job. The Islands (Avalon and such) fall into whatever district they align with. Major political parties might cry foul as their power is seized from them. Cry me a river. Tom miller Davis, CA ”
