

Introduction

The Strategic Outreach Plan¹ was developed to ensure a systematic approach to develop educational material, identify community partners, utilize tools to communicate, including social media platforms, and to encourage individual and community engagement in the process for redistricting California. The Commission conducted research, including reaching out to various organizations for information on their outreach experience and strategies.

The Strategic Outreach Plan includes the following:

1. The Commission's mission and vision
2. Goals
3. Outreach, Engagement, and Activation Strategies
4. Phases (Production, Educational, Grants)
5. Outreach and Engagement Activities
6. Grants Framework

Section 3: Outreach, Engagement, and Activation Strategies

In general, the strategy is to inform Californians about the importance of redistricting and encourage them to participate in the Commission's public hearings.

Strategy 1.

Infrastructure - The Commission has created a high level infrastructure for outreach and engagement activities that will allow the Commission to maximize its outreach efforts and target their efforts towards hard-to-reach populations. Staff, with Commissioners, will continue to build the ground level regional infrastructure to ensure there is a process for engagement and that we are able to coordinate outreach activities. These ground level staff will also be critical in the transitions from virtual meetings to on-site meetings when Covid-19 restrictions are lifted. Staff will also create a database to collect contact information from community organizations and track outreach activities throughout California.

Strategy 2

Messaging and marketing - It is important to make sure the Commission has a consistent message that is reflected in the all media formats. Whether it is in print, video, social media, or in-person, the message will be the same. Staff will be developing materials, a tool box, for Commissioners to use in their outreach efforts.

Strategy 3

Commissioner Outreach and Engagement - The Outreach and Engagement Subcommittee identified and proposed the creation of eleven Outreach Zones for the Commission to use for outreach and engagement workloads and activities. Given the size of California, the Commission assigned two commissioners for each Outreach Zone to lead in outreach and engagement activities for their respective Outreach Zones. They will lead and oversee the efforts in those Outreach Zones and ensure that the Commission has heard from the Outreach Zones Communities of Interest (COI). Due to Covid-19 restrictions, outreach activities will be virtual until such time it is safe and allowed. Commissioner responsibilities would include, but not limited to:

- Being the voice and face of the Commission in the Outreach Zone for educational presentations
- Connecting with local leaders and community-based organizations
- Making recommendations and supporting local outreach partners and efforts
- Facilitating the efforts when drawing lines in that region

Strategy 4

Activation - Activating individuals to share their Community of Interest and provide input on draft maps to the Commission is a critical piece of the Commissions’ outreach activities. Public input could be made through:

- public comment at public input meetings,
- through email,
- through the community of interest (COI) tool,
- calling into a dedicated phone line.

Commissioners and staff will harness the outreach infrastructure of community-based organizations and various stakeholders to encourage and support the communities they serve to participate in the Public Input process highlighting the numerous methods and multiple opportunities for participation. The Commission will utilize and promote Commission and partner created materials and training to help with this activation.

An additional method to strengthen activation is establishing a grantmaking process to leverage outreach partners to encourage and support individuals and community groups to participate and be heard. The Commission would work together with granted partners to promote community meetings for public input and equip the communities they serve to participate, among other engagement activities.

Methods

The following includes various methods the Commission will use to reach out to Californians.

Methods	Description
Educational Presentations / Meeting	Presentations/Meetings to provide citizens information about the Commission, including who the Commissioners are, what they are going to do; how citizens can be involved to provide input through the COI tool, email, phone, etc.; and answer general questions. Due to Covid-19, these presentations will be virtual through Zoom or similar platforms hosted by the community partners.

Public In-Person Meetings	Presentations that are face-to-face with an audience hosted by the Commission, a community partner, or jointly. Commission field staff will coordinate with host and facility to ensure social distancing protocols are adhered to for the entire meeting. These meetings will be live streamed and public comments will be taken. Input tools will be made available or referenced.

Outreach Structure

In an effort to be more responsive to requests for presentations, public meetings, and overall outreach and engagement activities it is recommended to have an outreach coordinator and field staff stationed in the North, Central, and South areas as early as February. The Northern field staff would cover Outreach Zones A-D, the Central field staff would cover E-G, and the Southern field staff would cover H-K. The outreach coordinator would provide onboarding to the field staff, distribute contact information, collect and report on outreach activities, and provide oversight and support to field staff. The regional field staff will be an integral part of the Commission’s boots on the ground to reach out to community partners and when the Commission is able to conduct live public in-person meetings. The field staff would also serve as support staff for Commissioners to follow up on contacts, disseminate information material to groups, and coordinate meetings as necessary.

Section 4: Phases

Phase 1 - Production

An essential part of the outreach activities requires the development of materials for handing out and marketing. Staff will engage in the development of materials for the Commission to share with community partners and other sources to inform the public of what the Commission is for, the process, and how they can participate in providing input. Another aspect of this phase includes the roll out of a new Commission webpage, informational materials, videos, a social media presence, and a more traditional media campaign.

Phase 2 - Educational Outreach - Redistricting Basics

This phase consists of the Commission’s education campaign to inform Californians of the Commission, the State redistricting process, how their communities can participate, and what tools are available for them to provide input and comments. Given there are other redistricting efforts going on, the Commission will need to differentiate between the local, county, and state redistricting efforts. The goal in this phase is to reach out to all communities, while specifically targeting those communities that are traditionally difficult to engage or have not been invited to engage in the political process.

Due to Covid-19 impacts and restrictions, the Commission will conduct this phase via virtual presentations throughout California. The Commission will work with statewide, local, and non-profit organizations to partner with them in this education effort. This phase will be implemented from February - May. This timeframe was extended from the original timeline of February – March to adjust for delays in the Commission receiving Census data. In addition, it is the goal of the Commission to reach out to various communities, including non-English speaking communities. The COI tool will be available in 12 languages that align with the top 12 languages in California and are consistent with the languages used for the California Census.

The Commission will conduct non-CRC hosted (private) Public Education Sessions. The requirements for non-CRC Hosted sessions are:

- Only one commissioner shall present at private Public Education Sessions.
- Notice for all Public Education Sessions will be posted on the website.
- Require recording and posting of all private Public Education Sessions or live broadcast of the session on a site available to the public.
- Provide pre-recorded videos for use by organizations that are unwilling to record and post or broadcast live on a site available to the public.
- More than one Commissioner may present at Public Education Sessions during meetings that meet Brown Act and/or Bagley-Keene requirements.

Staff and/or Commissioners will communicate to the community-based organization when scheduling an educational presentation that the presentation is for educational purposes only and that the Commissioners will not take public comment on redistricting matters during this meeting. Commissioners will also mention that they are providing information for education purposes and not taking public input on redistricting matters at the beginning of the presentations and at the beginning of the Question and Answer (Q&A) part of the presentation. Staff and/or Commissioners will provide the community organizations information on how to get to the tools for public input.

The Commission will also conduct CRC hosted and noticed, Public Education Sessions.

Phase 3 - Public meetings for public input (COI input)

In this phase, the Commission will focus on public input at community meetings scheduled throughout the State. The Commission will leverage contacts with community-based organizations (CBOs) to get the word out and coordinate the public input meetings. These meetings will be hosted by the Commission, community groups, and/or jointly hosted. They will include a “line drawer” in this phase to take public input into considerations for the line drawing purposes. The Commission will have community of interest (COI) tools to collect public input. The public meetings are scheduled to begin in April. However, schedule information for this phase may change and will be provided at a later date.

Section 5: Outreach and Engagement Activities

The Educational Presentations - Redistricting Basics are intended to be more about making a connection with community groups and informing them on the process and how they can get involved. Staff and/or Commissioners will communicate to the community-based organization when scheduling an educational presentation that the presentation is for educational purposes only and that the Commissioners will not take public comment on redistricting matters during this meeting. Commissioners will also mention that they are providing information for education purposes and not taking public input on redistricting matters at the beginning of the presentations and at the beginning of the Question and Answer (Q&A) part of the presentation. Staff and/or Commissioners will provide the community organizations information on how to get to the tools for public input.

The presentations could be between fifteen minutes to one hour in length and would consist of the following basic information:

- Welcome by the hosting organization
- Image slide of all Commissioners - Pictures and City
- Introduction of attending Commissioners (2 per assigned Outreach Zone)
- Show PowerPoint or play video
- Q&A
- Closing

Commissioners will be provided with talking points, a PowerPoint presentation, and other materials to use for the presentations depending on time allotted. Links to the CCRC website, videos, COI tool, and other available information will be provided to the hosting organizations prior to the meetings.

The next phase, Phase 3 - Public Meetings for public input (COI input), are scheduled to begin in April and will include a line drawer at those meetings. Schedule information for this phase may change and will be provided at a later date.

Section 6: Grants Framework

One component of the Outreach, Engagement, and Activation Strategy is to partner with organizations that are connected with various audiences and can help the Commission in its mission. A grant funding process can leverage trusted community partners across the state to educate and activate Californians to participate in the redistricting process.

Grant funding is an opportunity for the Commission to further reach communities who may face barriers to participation, including accessibility, limited knowledge of the redistricting process, language access or other factors. Funding will support activities including education and training with the goal of supporting individuals to provide public input to the Commission about their communities. A grantmaking structure is yet to be determined but the Commission and staff are working on establishing a grant process that includes guidelines and criteria for funding.
